Completes Course At Drug Firm

WEST POINT, Pa. –Robert C. Hubbard, of 209 N. Church St., Appomattox, Va., a Senior Professional Representative for Merck Sharp & Dohme, has recently completed a course of advanced education and orientation at the firm's home offices at West Point, Pa. The meetings were conducted October 26-30.

Mr. Hubbard, who has represented the pharmaceutical firm for the past 24 years, was part of a group of 22 representatives from around the country selected to attend the special program.

In addition to participating in product and marketing seminars, the group learned about the latest therapeutic developments in the fields of mental health, cardiovascular disease, and arthritic disorders.

Merck Sharp & Dohme, a leading manufacturer of prescription drugs, has been prominent in the development of numerous medical breakthroughs which have included the sulfa drugs, blood fractions, cortisone, streptomycin, vitamin B12, mumps vaccine, and the thiazide family of diuretics.

Coop Reports Annual Gain

Total dollar volume for Southern States Cooperative for the fiscal year ended last June 30, reached $136,816,000---an increase of about $14,700,000 or 12% over the previous year---General Manager W.T.Steele Jr. reported to delegates who attended the cooperative's 47th annual stockholders meeting in Richmond last week.

"This was the largest annual gain by the association in any of its 47 years," Steele said.

"Feed, seed, fertilizer, farm supplies and petroleum, plus sales in retail branches, all showed substantial volume increases, most of them setting new records for service," he stated.

Net saving---after payment of federal and state income taxes ---amounted to $5,045,000, about $260,000 more than in the previous 12 months.

In addition to Steele's report, other highlights of the session included an address of welcome by Dr. James E. Martin, dean of the college of agriculture at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, and a message by the cooperative's President O.H. Campbell.

Market Demands Are 'Critical'

Highly accurate forecasts of future market demands were termed "particularly critical" to the electric power industry by a utility spokesman appearing before the Governor's Council on Environment.

Jack W. Kepner, operations superintendent for Appalachian Power Company, told Governor Linwood Holton and his newly-formed council that utilities have facilities ready to supply service "the instant it is required by the customer."

His remarks were part of a joint presentation of Appalachian and Virginia Electric and Power Company before the council.

Forecasts from four to eight years in the future are especially critical, he said, "because they serve as the basis for decisions to construct major new generating and transmission facilities" which can take that long to place in service.

In his discussion of load growth and estimating, Kepner said the rapid growth in the Virginia economy in the last few years and the accelerated growth in the use of electricity have created demand to exceed expectations.

In the next decade, Kepner said, Vepco's peak load is expected to increase nearly 2.5 times and Appalachian anticipates an increase of 1.9 times the current load.

a new twist to the old gift grind

If Christmas shopping has you going 'round in circles, try taking a bold leap backward this year. An antique pepper mill might be a tasteful answer to a difficult gift problem. A bit of the past can make a wonderful present. And when you've selected it, you'll probably buy it with Fidelity Master Charge.

Because most everywhere you go, your Fidelity Master Charge card is accepted. It's good for Christmas shopping in literally hundreds of stores, large and small.

If you use it for all your shopping, you'll get just one bill next month. Which means you can pay it with one check, if you like, or in comfortable monthly installments to fit your budget. Master Charge.
